

ANARCHISTS TO BE SWEEPED OUT OF GREATER CITY

Forty-Six Known Reds on Government List About to Be Arrested.

WILL BE DEPORTED.

Former Secret Service Chief Arrives To-Morrow to Open Warfare.

William F. Hazen, former chief of the secret service, is expected to-morrow from Washington bearing Government warrants for the arrest of forty-six men and women who are strongly believed to be active anarchists. Before the end of next week it is expected that all of the suspects will be under arrest, and that the majority of them will stand face to face with summary deportation from the country. They all live in this city or near it.

These things are the direct outcome of a work which was undertaken several months ago by the Police Department, but which, thanks to the President's newly-started warfare on the red flag, has now been taken out of Gen. Bincham's hands and entrusted to the Federal authorities.

All Foreign Born.

It appears that some time ago, even before the bomb-throwing in Union Square, the Police Commissioner undertook secretly to get rid of the anarchistic agitators of the Greater City. Members of the Detective Bureau who knew the workings of the secret societies of the foreign quarters secured the names of sixteen men who were admittedly advocates of anarchy. These names the Commissioner sent to Immigration Commissioner Watchorn with the request that the Ellis Island records be searched with a view to ascertaining the date of entrance of the unsavory sixteen and any other official data pertaining to them that might be on file. The Immigration people found this task beyond them. The matter was referred to Secretary Straus, of the Bureau of Commerce and Labor. At Mr. Straus's orders Hazen was sent here. Aided by members of Inspector McGarrett's staff of Headquarters detectives Mr. Hazen got the list of names of the forty-six who are to be taken in custody as soon as Mr. Hazen gets here. All of the prospective prisoners are foreign born, and with one or two exceptions natives either of Russia or Italy.

Will Have a Hearing.

As soon as the group of Reds have been rounded up they will be sent to Ellis Island, where a Board of Special Inquiry, made up of three Immigration inspectors, will pass on their cases. Those who have no naturalization papers may be summarily deported upon proof of the fact that they are undesirable aliens, open and violent advocates of anarchy being interpreted as making them extremely undesirable. Those who have been here long enough to secure preliminary papers may also be sent away upon proof tending to show that they committed crime or counseled it during the first three years of their residence, before they secure their citizenship papers.

BOOKSTAVEN WILL UPHOLD BY COURT

Former Justice Disproves the Old Adage As to What a Lawyer Cannot Do.

The adage that the best lawyer cannot save his own will so it will stand, eminently illustrated in the long Samuel J. Tilden litigation, gets a knockout in the decision of Justice O'Gorman today in the contention over the will of the late Justice Henry W. Bookstaver. Judge Bookstaver, who died Sept. 21 last, had an estate of $150,000. He left a widow, seventy-two years old, and a daughter, Mrs. Mary A. Knoblauch, aged thirty-two. He willed his entire estate to his widow "for her use and behoof during her natural life, she to have absolute control and disposal of all the income to be derived therefrom and so much of the principal as she may deem necessary for her comfortable sustenance and support."

At the death of the widow the executors are directed to convert the estate into money, set $50,000 aside by investment and pay the income to his daughter. If she dies childless, it is provided that this fund shall go to Judge Bookstaver's alma mater, Rutgers College, which is made the legatee of the residue. Mrs. Bookstaver and her daughter claim that the "absolute control" and permission to "dispose of" the estate fund as the widow deems necessary constitutes an absolute bequest of the $150,000. That the document violates the New York law limiting bequests to charitable or religious purposes is not more than one-half of the estate which there is a child living.

Justice O'Gorman rules otherwise, pointing out that the first clause giving "absolute control and disposal" to the widow is limited to her life, and that the $50,000 gift to Rutgers is expressly upon the death of his only child, and that death without issue.
